SITE SAFETY SUPERVISOR (SSS) COURSE

INTRODUCTION

The construction industry is playing an important role in the successful implementation of the 10th Malaysia Plan and the Economic Transformation Programme (ETP) with many economic entry point projects to be launched under the 12 National Key Economic Areas (NKEAS). To date approximately RM 147 billion worth of projects had been identified and it is estimated the Mass Rapid Transit Project alone will be generating more than 130,000 jobs for the construction and related industries. Thus, it is crucial to ensure a substantial knowledgeable, innovative, skilled and competent manpower supply for the safe and successful implementation of ETP.

Under the Factories & Machinery (Building Operations and Works of Engineering Construction)(Safety) Regulations 1986; for any building operation and works of engineering construction projects:

1. Main Contractors are required to employ competent SSS for safety supervision within the work site
2. Sub-contractors must employ competent Contractor’s Safety Supervisor at the place of work to keep each project safe, yet be cost effective and efficient.

The Department of Occupational Safety & Health (DOSH) has fully enforced the above-mentioned regulations since January 2012. In order to fulfil the requirements and at the same time to resolve the high demand and serious shortage of Site Safety & Health Supervisors (SSS) in the construction industry, with the blessing of DOSH, MBAM is taking a pro-active step in helping the Government to overcome the above issue by conducting the SSS training course specially tailored for the construction industry. This SSS Course is accredited and recognized by DOSH.
